The CSET Art exam is designed to evaluate educators' proficiency in art education, ensuring they possess the necessary content knowledge and teaching skills to instruct K-12 students effectively. This exam is divided into multiple subtests, typically covering foundational skills, art history, and studio practices. Passing the exam is a prerequisite for those seeking a California teaching credential in art. The exam format includes multiple-choice questions and constructed responses, which assess both theoretical knowledge and practical understanding.

Exam Structure and Format

The CSET Art exam usually consists of two or three subtests, depending on the specific credential requirements. Each subtest targets distinct content areas such as:
