Overview of CSUSB General Education Requirements

The csusb general education requirements constitute a set of mandated courses that all undergraduate students must complete regardless of their major. These requirements aim to provide students with a well-rounded education, equipping them with essential skills and knowledge that transcend specific academic disciplines. The curriculum is structured to foster intellectual curiosity, ethical reasoning, and effective communication skills. By completing these requirements, students develop competencies that support their professional and personal growth beyond the university setting. The general education program at CSUSB aligns with the California State University (CSU) system's standards, ensuring consistency and transferability across campuses.

Core Competencies and Learning Objectives

At the heart of the csusb general education requirements are several core competencies that guide course selection and learning outcomes. These competencies include critical thinking, written and oral communication, quantitative reasoning, and information literacy. Each general education course is designed to support one or more of these competencies, ensuring that students acquire demonstrable skills applicable in diverse contexts. The learning objectives emphasize analytical reasoning, problem-solving capabilities, and cultural awareness. Through exposure to various disciplines, students gain an understanding of different perspectives and develop the ability to engage thoughtfully with complex societal issues.

General Education Areas and Credit Distribution

The csusb general education requirements are divided into multiple areas, each representing a broad field of study. Students must complete courses across these areas to fulfill the overall credit requirements. The main areas typically include:

- Area A: Communication and Critical Thinking – Courses focusing on English composition, oral communication, and analytical reasoning.
- Area B: Scientific Inquiry and Quantitative Reasoning – Coursework in natural sciences, mathematics, and statistics designed to develop scientific literacy and quantitative skills.
- Area C: Arts and Humanities – Classes in literature, philosophy, fine arts, and cultural studies to enhance creative and critical understanding.
- Area D: Social Sciences – Courses covering history, psychology, sociology, and political science to provide insights into human behavior and social structures.
- Area E: Lifelong Learning and Self-Development – Studies that promote personal growth, health, and wellness.

Typically, students are required to complete approximately 48 semester units of general education coursework, distributed among these areas to ensure a balanced academic foundation.

Course Options and Approved Classes

CSUSB offers a wide range of courses that satisfy the general education requirements. Students can select from an extensive catalog of classes approved for each GE area, providing flexibility to tailor their learning experience according to their interests and academic goals. For example, Area A includes courses in English composition and public speaking, while Area B encompasses subjects such as biology, chemistry, and mathematics. The university periodically updates the list of approved courses to maintain relevance and academic rigor. Additionally, some courses fulfill multiple GE areas simultaneously, allowing students to maximize their course selection efficiency.

Transfer Students and GE Requirements

Transfer students from community colleges or other institutions should be aware of how their previous coursework aligns with csusb general education requirements. CSUSB participates in the California State University's Intersegmental General Education Transfer Curriculum (IGETC) and the CSU General Education Breadth pattern. Completion of these transfer pathways typically satisfies the lower-division general education requirements at CSUSB. However, students must consult with academic advisors to verify course applicability and to understand any additional upper-division GE requirements specific to their major. Proper evaluation of transfer credits ensures a smooth transition and prevents redundancy in coursework.

Advising and Resources for GE Planning

Effective academic advising is crucial for students to navigate csusb general education requirements successfully. CSUSB provides dedicated advising services that assist students in selecting appropriate GE courses, understanding degree requirements, and planning their academic trajectory. Advisors help students interpret degree audit reports, explore course options that align with career objectives, and stay informed about updates to GE policies. Additionally, CSUSB offers online resources, workshops, and informational guides that support students in meeting their general education obligations efficiently. Utilizing these resources promotes timely degree completion and enhances overall academic success.

csusb general education requirements: Encountering Disgrace William E. McDonald, 2009 Ever since it was first published in 1999, Nobel laureate J. M. Coetzee's novel Disgrace has provoked controversy. Set in post-apartheid South Africa, it follows Prof. David Lurie as he encounters disgrace through his sexual exploitation of a student and then through the shocking gang-rape of his only daughter. The novel's uncompromising portrayal of the new South Africa outraged many, who found the book regressive, even racist. It also challenged readers worldwide to confront its hard questions. This first book of essays devoted to the novel ambitiously brings together criticism and pedagogy. The ten critical essays and eight essays on teaching Disgrace grapple with the ethical issues the novel so provocatively raises: rape, gender, race, animal rights. Disgrace is widely taught in colleges and universities and read in book clubs; the debates it has given rise to will take on fresh life with the release of the upcoming film starring John Malkovich. Unusually, the eighteen contributors to the collection are all faculty members or graduates of the same institution, the Johnston Center for Integrative Studies at the University of Redlands, and have worked together closely in crafting their essays over the past two years. The volume will be exceptionally useful to teachers of literature, philosophy, and South African culture, to book club leaders, and to all readers of Coetzee. Contributors: Nancy Best, James Boobar, Bradley Butterfield, Jane Creighton, Matthew Gray, Pat Harrigan, Gary Hawkins, Rabbi Patricia Karlin-Neumann, Daniel Kiefer, Bill McDonald, Michael G. McDunnah, Kim Middleton, Kevin O'Neill, Raymond Obstfeld, Kathy Ogren, Kenneth Reinhard, Sandra D. Shattuck, Patricia Casey Sutcliffe, Julie Townsend. Bill McDonald is Emeritus Professor of English at the University of Redlands, Redlands, California.

csusb general education requirements: Teaching and Learning History Online Stephen K. Stein, Maureen MacLeod, 2023-04-17 Teaching and Learning History Online: A Guide for College Instructors offers everything a new online history instructor needs in one package, including how to structure courses, integrate multimedia, and manage and grade discussions, as well as advice for department chairs on curriculum management, student advising, and more. In today's technological society, online courses are quickly becoming the new normal in terms of collegiate instruction, providing the ideal environment to flip the classroom and encourage students to hone critical thinking skills by engaging deeply with historical sources. While much of the attention in online teaching focuses on STEM, business, and education courses, online history courses have also proven consistently popular. However, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, new history instructors are rushed into online teaching with little or no training or experience, creating a need for a guide to ease the transition from classroom to online course development and teaching. A timely text, this book aims to provide both new and experienced college history teachers the information they need to develop dynamic online courses.
