promoting better educational outcomes. It is often used for screening children entering preschool or kindergarten to ensure they are adequately prepared for the academic and social demands ahead.

History and Development

The Brigance assessment was developed by Albert H. Brigance, an expert in early childhood education and developmental diagnostics. Since its inception, it has evolved into a comprehensive tool that aligns with current educational standards and developmental research. Its reliability and validity have made it a trusted choice among professionals working with young children.

Components of the Brigance Preschool Assessment

The Brigance preschool assessment consists of multiple components designed to evaluate a wide range of developmental areas. These components provide a detailed snapshot of a child's abilities and readiness for the next stages of learning.

Developmental Domains Covered

The assessment typically examines the following key domains:

free brigrance assessment preschool: Assessment of Young Developmentally Disabled Children Theodore D. Wachs, Robert Sheehan, 2013-06-29 Our knowledge of the cognitive and social-emotional functioning of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers derives, in large part, from our assessment of such children. This book has been developed to familiarize readers with the characteristics of developmentally disabled children, and to introduce to readers aspects of measurement that are of relevance to the assessment of atypical infants and preschoolers. The book has been developed with clinicians and prospective clinicians in mind. These are individuals who are committed to the care and education of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers and the families of those children. The book has thus been written to provide support for the use of assessment data in planning early intervention programs. Of special note in the development of this edited book is that it is divided into four major parts with interrelated chapters in each part. The authors of chapters in Parts II and III had access to the chapters in Part I before writing their chapters. The summary chapters found in Part IV were similarly written by authors having access to all chapters in Parts I-III. This approach to the development of an edited book was chosen as a way of ensuring an integration of major concepts throughout the book. This process is also a reflection of our belief that assessment is an interdisciplinary process, involving the synthesis of a number of diverse interests.
