The clinical team includes licensed physical therapists who stay current with the latest research and techniques through continuing education. Their expertise ensures that patients receive evidence-based, effective treatments tailored to individual needs. The collaborative approach among therapists fosters a comprehensive evaluation process and coordinated care plans that address all aspects of a patient's recovery.

Patient Experience and Rehabilitation Process

From initial evaluation to discharge, the patient experience at IBJI Physical Therapy Lincolnwood is designed to be seamless and supportive. The rehabilitation process typically begins with a thorough assessment including medical history review, physical examination, and functional testing. Based on these findings, therapists develop a customized treatment plan aligned with patient goals.

Initial Evaluation and Goal Setting

The initial session focuses on identifying limitations, pain sources, and functional impairments. Therapists collaborate with patients to establish realistic and measurable rehabilitation goals.

Ongoing Treatment and Progress Monitoring

Regular therapy sessions involve hands-on treatment, exercise progression, and use of modalities. Progress is continuously assessed to adjust the therapy plan as needed to maximize recovery outcomes.

Patient Education and Home Programs

Empowering patients with knowledge about their condition and self-management techniques is a critical component. Therapists provide education on posture, ergonomics, and exercises to perform at home to sustain improvements.
