In the post-Cold War world, globalization now offers wealth and opportunities on a broader scale, as well as greater international harmony, but threatens to reinforce the advantage gap between wealthy and poor regions and intensify environmental degradation. The second edition includes biographies of Kofi Annan, Tony Blair, Bill Clinton, and Gerhard Schroder; articles on events such as the Rwandan Genocide and the war in Kosovo; and coverage of international trade developments such as NAFTA and the World Trade Organization. Eighty-seven of the 672 articles in the Second Edition are completely new; most others are thoroughly revised. ibrahim traore political ideology: Socialist Internationalism and the Gritty Politics of the Particular Kristin Roth-Ey, 2023-04-06 This collection takes a case study approach to enter into and explore spaces of 'Second-Third World' interaction during the Cold War. From the dining halls of a university, to hospital wards, construction sites, military barracks, pubs and more, the chapters drop the scale down from the global to the particular to better see, understand and interpret the complex nature of these spaces. These ordinary spaces are examined to understand how they were conceived, constructed, shaped and reshaped by people over time. Many are physical places of encounter, while others are more abstract, embodying ideological goals. In exploring these spaces the contributors show how the Second and Third World actors understood them and connected them to ideas such as gender and space, the space of the nation, of the modern and of the self. Essentially, it seeks to unravel how these spaces between Second and Third Worlds worked, and what, if anything, was distinctive and consequential about them. Second-Third World Spaces in the Cold War explores the ways in which these Second and Third World actors collaborated and clashed in these everyday spaces, and brings these multi-faceted, multi-actor histories to a vital centre ground.

ibrahim traore political ideology: Multimodality, Ideology, and Manipulation Jacopo Castaldi, 2025-04-30 This book examines how sociopolitical and intercultural ideologies surrounding globalisation and neoliberalism are constructed and negotiated in travel documentaries, focusing on the role of the BBC in reproducing neo-imperialistic and neoliberal values. It argues that these documentaries naturalise the values underpinning globalisation and justify the exploitation of resources from the United Kingdom and the West at the expense of developing countries, reflecting forms of neo-imperialism. After discussing the role of the BBC as a public service provider and the research's theoretical and methodological foundations, three case studies explore the semiotic and cognitive processes involved in media effects. Through an interdisciplinary approach integrating multimodal critical discourse analysis, audience research, and relevance theory, the book contributes to discussions on the application of multimodality theory to social concerns and addresses academic communities in media studies, critical discourse studies, and semiotics. This book will interest scholars in multimodality, critical discourse analysis, media and communication studies, and semiotics.

ibrahim traore political ideology: The Homeland Is the Arena Ousmane Kane, 2011-03-23 As Senegal prepares to celebrate fifty years of independence from French colonial rule, academic and policy circles are engaged in a vigorous debate about its experience in nation building. An important aspect of this debate is the impact of globalization on Senegal, particularly the massive labor migration that began directly after independence. From Tokyo to Melbourne, from Turin to Buenos Aires, from Paris to New York, 300,000 Senegalese immigrants are simultaneously negotiating their integration into their host society and seriously impacting the development of their homeland. This book addresses the modes of organization of transnational societies in the globalized context, and specifically the role of religion in the experience of migrant communities in Western societies. Abundant literature is available on immigrants from Latin America and Asia, but very little on Africans, especially those from French speaking countries in the United States. Ousmane Kane offers a case study of the growing Senegalese community in New York City. By pulling together numerous aspects (religious, ethnic, occupational, gender, generational, socio-economic, and political) of the experience of the Senegalese migrant community into an integrated analysis, linking discussion of both the homeland and host community, this book breaks new ground in the debate about postcolonial Senegal, Muslim globalization and diaspora studies in the United States. A leading scholar of African Islam, Ousmane Kane has also conducted extensive research in North America, Europe and Africa, which allows him to provide an insightful historical ethnography of the Senegalese transnational experience.

ibrahim traore political ideology: New Wave of Revolutions in the MENA Region Leonid Issaev, Andrey Korotayev, 2022-11-05 This book offers a comparative perspective on the new wave of revolutions in the MENA region. Recently, a new wave of revolutions has swept the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, comparable in some respects to the events of the Arab Spring. Revolutionary events have significantly changed the political regimes in Sudan, Algeria and Mali, while Lebanon and Iraq have also witnessed serious revolutionary episodes. Further, a new quality of protests has manifested in Iran, Egypt, Morocco and Jordan. Presenting a variety of country studies, this book identifies similarities and differences between the events of the Arab Spring and the current upheavals in the MENA region and examines their causes and world-system context. It also analyzes the motivating forces, goals and organizational forms of the protesters and other actors involved, as well as the political and economic consequences of these revolutionary events. Moreover, it seeks to understand why some countries that were actively involved in the Arab Spring have remained largely unaffected by these developments. The book appeals to scholars of political science with a focus on comparative politics, Middle Eastern politics and political sociology.

ibrahim traore political ideology: Ibrahim Traoré Naim Tahir Baig, 2025-06-04 Book Description Ibrahim Traoré Revolutionary Leadership in Modern Africa - The Revolutionary Captain and Africa's New Dawn In September 2022, a 34-year-old geology student turned military officer forever changed the trajectory of African politics. Captain Ibrahim Traoré, seizing power in Burkina Faso through his second coup in eight months, emerged not merely as another military strongman, but as the voice of a generation demanding African dignity, sovereignty, and genuine independence from neo-colonial structures. Dr. Naim Tahir Baig's groundbreaking analysis presents the first comprehensive examination of Traoré's meteoric rise to become Africa's youngest head of state and one of the continent's most influential leaders. Drawing on extensive research, exclusive interviews, and firsthand accounts, this book reveals how a quiet artillery captain from rural Burkina Faso became the symbol of African renaissance, inspiring millions of young people from Dakar to Nairobi who see in him the reincarnation of revolutionary Pan-Africanist ideals. The parallels with Thomas Sankara are impossible to ignore-both seized power at 34, both championed anti-imperialist ideology, both emerged from Burkina Faso's red earth carrying visions of continental liberation. But where Sankara's revolution unfolded during the Cold War's binary choices, Traoré operates in a multipolar world offering unprecedented opportunities for African agency. His expulsion of French troops, formation of the Alliance of Sahel States, and bold declaration that Africa's gold must benefit Africa first represent more than policy decisions-they signal a fundamental shift in how young Africans view their relationship with former colonial powers. This meticulously researched biography traces Traoré's journey from his rural childhood through his military formation, analyzing how personal experience with Western intervention's failures shaped his revolutionary consciousness. Baig examines the domestic policies that have earned Traoré continental acclaim-free education, healthcare expansion, resource nationalization-while unflinchingly addressing the democratic deficits and security challenges that complicate his legacy. The book explores how Traoré's influence extends far beyond Burkina Faso's borders, inspiring similar movements across West Africa and challenging the entire post-colonial order that has governed African international relations for six decades. Through detailed analysis of his speeches, policies, and regional impact, Dr. Baig reveals how Traoré has successfully mobilized African youth through digital platforms, creating a new form of pan-African consciousness that transcends national boundaries. As military governments sweep across West Africa and young Africans increasingly question democratic institutions that have failed to deliver security or prosperity, Traoré's example raises fundamental questions about leadership, legitimacy, and the future of African governance. Will he succeed where Sankara failed, institutionalizing revolutionary change while avoiding martyrdom? Can his model of military-led transformation deliver the dignity and development he promises? And what does his rise reveal about the evolving relationship between Africa and the global community? Drawing on his expertise as author of twenty-seven internationally published books on political analysis and international relations, Dr. Baig provides essential context for understanding not just Traoré's individual story, but its significance for contemporary African politics and the broader struggle for post-colonial liberation. This is the definitive account of a leader who has already altered the landscape of African politics and whose ultimate legacy-whether as successful revolutionary or martyred symbol-will shape the continent's future for generations to come.
