This moment was widely shared and adapted, resonating with audiences for its blunt yet insightful message. Over time, the phrase was extracted from its context and transformed into a meme format that could be applied to various scenarios where people deflect blame or refuse to self-reflect.

As the words "at work" suggest, Peter Seibel focuses on how his interviewees tackle the day-to-day work of programming, while revealing much more, like how they became great programmers, how they recognize programming talent in others, and what kinds of problems they find most interesting. Hundreds of people have suggested names of programmers to interview on the Coders at Work web site: www.codersatwork.com. The complete list was 284 names.
