Overview of the Posner Center International Development

The Posner Center International Development is a unique facility dedicated to advancing international development through collaboration and innovation. Located in Denver, Colorado, the center provides shared workspace and resources for a diverse community of organizations focused on global development challenges. The Posner Center fosters an environment where nonprofits, social enterprises, and academic institutions can co-locate and work together to maximize their impact. By offering state-of-the-art facilities and a supportive ecosystem, the center enables organizations to leverage their strengths and create scalable solutions that address critical issues such as poverty alleviation, health improvement, and sustainable economic development.

Mission and Vision

The mission of the Posner Center International Development is to build a collaborative community that accelerates the progress of international development organizations. Its vision centers on creating a world where innovative partnerships and shared knowledge lead to sustainable and equitable global development. This mission underscores the center's commitment to fostering cooperation among diverse stakeholders, including NGOs, government agencies, and private sector partners, to amplify their collective impact on global challenges.

Facilities and Resources

The Posner Center offers a comprehensive range of facilities designed to support the operational and strategic needs of international development organizations. These include flexible office spaces, conference rooms, event venues, and technology infrastructure. Additionally, the center provides access to expert networks, training workshops, and capacity-building programs that enhance organizational effectiveness. These resources are integral in helping tenants and partners implement innovative approaches and expand their outreach in international development.

Core Programs and Initiatives

The Posner Center International Development hosts several core programs and initiatives that drive collaboration and innovation within the global development community. These programs are designed to foster partnerships, share best practices, and mobilize resources to tackle pressing international development issues.

Accelerator and Incubator Programs

One of the key offerings at the Posner Center is its accelerator and incubator programs tailored for startups and emerging organizations in the development sector. These programs provide mentorship, strategic guidance, and networking opportunities that enable early-stage organizations to refine their models and scale their impact effectively. Participants benefit from access to funding opportunities, expert advice, and a supportive peer network that nurtures growth and sustainability.

Capacity Building and Training

Capacity building is a fundamental aspect of the Posner Center's initiatives. The center regularly organizes workshops, seminars, and training sessions that focus on enhancing skills in areas such as project management, monitoring and evaluation, fundraising, and cross-cultural communication. These educational offerings empower organizations to improve their operational efficiency and programmatic outcomes, contributing to more effective international development interventions.

Networking and Partnership Facilitation

The Posner Center actively facilitates networking events and partnership-building activities to connect organizations with complementary missions and resources. These initiatives include thematic roundtables, speaker series, and collaborative project opportunities that encourage knowledge sharing and joint ventures among tenants and partners. Such engagements foster an ecosystem where innovation thrives and collective impact is amplified.

Collaborative Spaces and Community Engagement

The hallmark of the Posner Center International Development is its emphasis on creating a collaborative community through shared spaces and active engagement. The center's design and culture promote interaction, cooperation, and mutual support among diverse organizations working towards common global goals.

Shared Workspace Environment

The Posner Center is structured to facilitate collaboration through open and flexible workspaces that encourage interaction among tenants. By co-locating multiple organizations, the center creates opportunities for spontaneous conversations, resource sharing, and joint problem-solving. This dynamic workspace environment helps break down silos and fosters a culture of innovation and partnership.

Community Events and Forums

The center regularly hosts community events and forums that bring together development professionals, thought leaders, and practitioners. These gatherings serve as platforms for dialogue, learning, and collaboration. Events range from expert panels and case study presentations to informal social mixers, all designed to strengthen community ties and inspire new approaches to international development challenges.

Volunteer and Internship Programs

To further deepen community engagement, the Posner Center supports volunteer and internship programs that connect students and professionals with organizations working on development projects. These programs provide valuable experiential learning opportunities while augmenting the capacity of tenant organizations. Through these initiatives, the center fosters the next generation of development leaders and advocates.

Impact on Global Development Efforts

The Posner Center International Development has made significant contributions to advancing international development goals by enabling organizations to collaborate more effectively and innovate at scale. Its impact is evident across multiple sectors and geographic regions.

Enhancing Organizational Effectiveness

By providing access to shared resources, expert networks, and capacity-building programs, the Posner Center helps organizations increase their efficiency and effectiveness. This support enables tenants to deliver higher quality programs, improve monitoring and evaluation, and secure sustainable funding, thereby enhancing their overall impact.

Facilitating Cross-Sector Partnerships

The center's collaborative environment encourages partnerships that transcend traditional sector boundaries, integrating expertise from public health, agriculture, education, technology, and finance. These cross-sector collaborations have resulted in innovative solutions that address complex development challenges holistically and sustainably.

Supporting Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)

The work facilitated by the Posner Center aligns closely with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals. Organizations housed within the center actively contribute to goals such as poverty reduction, quality education, clean water and sanitation, and climate action. The center's role in accelerating progress towards SDGs underscores its importance in the global development landscape.

Future Directions and Strategic Goals

The Posner Center International Development continues to evolve with a strategic focus on expanding its capacity, deepening impact, and fostering innovation in the international development sector. Future plans aim to enhance the center's role as a leader in global development collaboration.

Expansion of Facilities and Services

To accommodate growing demand, the Posner Center plans to expand its physical space and enhance service offerings. This includes upgrading technology infrastructure, increasing event hosting capabilities, and providing more specialized support services tailored to the needs of international development organizations.

Strengthening Global Partnerships

The center aims to broaden its network by cultivating partnerships with international agencies, donor organizations, and private sector entities. Strengthening these relationships will facilitate greater resource mobilization and knowledge exchange, amplifying the center's influence on global development initiatives.

Innovation and Technology Integration

Recognizing the transformative potential of technology, the Posner Center intends to integrate innovative tools and digital platforms that enhance collaboration and project implementation. This focus will enable tenant organizations to leverage data analytics, remote communication, and other technological advancements to increase their reach and effectiveness.

Key Strategic Goals

- Expand collaborative workspace capacity to support more organizations.
- Increase training and capacity-building programs to enhance organizational impact.
- Foster cross-sector partnerships that drive innovative development solutions.
- Enhance the use of technology to streamline operations and improve project outcomes.
- Align initiatives more closely with global development priorities and SDGs.

posner center international development: Resource Salvation Mark Gorgolewski, 2017-12-26 A valuable source of information, insight, and fresh ideas about a crucial aspect of the growing sustainable design movement Mounting resource shortages worldwide coupled with skyrocketing extraction costs for new materials have made the prospect of materials reuse and recycling an issue of paramount importance. A fundamental goal of the sustainable design movement is to derive utmost use from construction materials and components, including energy, water, materials, building components, whole structures, and even entire infrastructures. Written by an expert with many years of experience in both industry and academe, this book explores a wide range of sustainable design strategies which designers around the globe are using to create efficient and aesthetically pleasing buildings from waste streams and discarded items. Emphasizing performance issues, design considerations and process constraints, it describes numerous fully realized projects, and explores theoretical applications still on the drawing board. There is a growing awareness worldwide of the need for cyclical systems of materials reuse. Pioneering efforts at "closed-loop" design date as far back as 1960s, but only recently have architects and designers begun to focus on the opportunities which discarded materials can provide for creating high performance structures. A source of insight and fresh ideas for architects, engineers, and designers, Resource Salvation: Reviews the theory and practice of building material and waste reuse and describes best practices in that area worldwide Describes projects that use closed-loop thinking to influence and inspire the design of components, interiors, whole buildings, or urban landscapes Illustrates how using discarded materials and focusing on closed loops can lead to new concepts in architecture, building science, and urban design Demonstrates how designers have developed aesthetically compelling solutions to the demands of rigorous performance standards Resource Salvation is a source of information and inspiration for architects, civil engineers, green building professionals, building materials suppliers, landscape designers, urban designers, and government policymakers. It is certain to become required reading in university courses in sustainable architecture, as well as materials engineering and environmental engineering curricula with a sustainable design component.

posner center international development: Shared Space and the New Nonprofit Workplace China Brotsky, Sarah Mendelson Eisinger, Diane Vinokur-Kaplan, 2019 In response to rising real-estate costs and positive trends toward collaboration in the nonprofit sector, Shared Space and the New Nonprofit Workplace presents a comprehensive overview of shared space as an innovative model and effective long-term solution for nonprofit organizations' need for stable and affordable office and program space. With the help of 15 case studies, the text provides a practical roadmap to develop these new workspaces; documents benefits to nonprofit staff, organizations, and their communities; and presents challenges and solutions at successful nonprofit shared spaces, the history of nonprofit centers, and future trends.

posner center international development: Citizen Aid and Everyday Humanitarianism Anne Meike Fechter, Anke Schwittay, 2021-05-13 Citizen Aid and Everyday Humanitarianism brings together, under the umbrella terms of citizen aid and grassroots humanitarianism, interdisciplinary research on small-scale, privately-funded forms of aid that operate on the margins of the official development sector. The last decade has seen a steady rise of such activities in the Global South and North, such as in response to the influx of refugees into Europe. The chapters in this volume cover a variety of locations in Asia, Africa and Europe, presenting empirically grounded cases of citizen aid. They range from educational development projects, to post-disaster emergency relief. Importantly, while some activities are initiated by Northern citizens, others are based on South-South assistance, such as Bangladeshi nationals supporting Rohingya refugees, and peer support in the Philippines in the aftermath of typhoon Haiyan. Together, the contributions consider citizen aid vis-à-vis more institutionalised forms of aid, review methodological approaches and their challenges and query the political dimensions of these initiatives. Key themes are historical perspectives on 'demotic humanitarianism', questions of legitimacy and professionalisation, founders' motivations, the role of personal connections, and the importance of digital media for brokerage and fundraising. Being mindful of the power imbalances inherent in citizen aid and everyday humanitarianism, they suggest that both deserve more systematic attention. Citizen Aid and Everyday Humanitarianism will be of great interest to scholars and professionals working in international development, humanitarianism, international aid and anthropology. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly.

posner center international development: International Energy and Poverty Lakshman Guruswamy, 2015-08-20 Around 2.8 billion people globally, also known as the Other Third or energy poor, have little or no access to beneficial energy that meets their needs for cooking, heating, water, sanitation, illumination, transportation, or basic mechanical power. This book uniquely integrates the hitherto segmented and fragmented approaches to the challenge of access to energy. It provides theoretical, philosophical and practical analysis of energy for the low energy (non-hydrocarbon based) Other Third of the world, and how the unmet needs of the energy poor might be satisfied. It comprehensively addresses the range of issues relating to energy justice and energy access for all, including affordable - sustainable energy technologies (ASETs). The book breaks new ground by crafting a unified and cohesive framework for analysis and action that explains the factual and socio-political phenomenon of the energy poor, and demonstrates why clean energy is a primary determinant of their human progress. This is a must-read for all scholars, students, professionals and policy makers working on energy policy, poverty, and sustainable energy technologies.

posner center international development: Decolonize, Humxnize Kathryn Toure, Roopal Thaker, Rama Dieng, 2024-02-24 Whose knowledge counts? Why delve deep to understand self, history and intercontinental relations? How do people and communities heal from the wounds of colonization and related trauma passed from generation to generation? Such intractable questions are explored in this collection of essays on decolonization. To decolonize means to humxnize, which is of even greater urgency in the 21 st century with colonization showing itself in new forms. Perspectives from several continents suggest pathways toward more convivial and equitable relations in society, and each chapter is presented in conversation with an illustration. The book will inspire young leaders, educators, activists, policymakers, researchers, and anyone resisting colonization and its effects and working for a kinder, gentler world. These 13 instructive and sometimes personal chapters speak to the urgency of decolonization, building on a culture of ubuntu or recognizing oneself in others. - François-Joseph Azoh, Psychologist, Lecturer at Ecole Normale Supérieure of Abidjan, Cote d'Ivoire Connections between colonization, racism, and other "isms" are addressed, as are rehumxnizing intercontinental movements such as Black Lives Matter, #MeToo, and #RhodesMustFall. - Dr. Wanja Njuguna, Senior Lecturer, Journalism and Media Technology, Namibia University of Science and Technology Embrace this read and learn how we humXns are the X-factor in the liberation from mental and physical bondage. - Larry Lester, activist and President of the Greater Kansas City Black History Study Group, a branch of ASALH Decolonization brings a progressive transformation of the world. - Therese Mungah Shalo Tchombe, Emeritus Professor/Honorary Dean of Education, University of Buea, Cameroon posner center international development: Globalization Jan-Erik Lane, 2017-07-05 Efforts at coordination between nations are at the heart of the challenges of globalization. Despite steadily growing interdependencies, individual nations still have specific interests that present obstacles to globalization. While some challenges inspired by the need to coordinate are viewed as inevitable by many, they are less optimistic about prospects for success. Jan-Erik Lane argues that one should focus objectively upon the possibility of failures. Lane analyzes four kinds of challenges to interdependency, all of which are growing in geopolitical relevance. First, countries need to diminish their dependency on fossil fuel and shift to a reliable supply of energy, because fossil fuels are diminishing. Second, environmental degradation must be addressed, because it is accelerating under the strain of earth's population. Lane advocates an ecological footprint approach. Third, a single global market economy and its complexities must be addressed, as national economies are increasingly opened. Finally, as traditional state sovereignty weakens, foreign military intervention in both international and intra-state conflicts increases. Governments are attempting to address these interdependencies, or reply to the challenges they pose, mainly through international organizations and regionalism. These efforts are discussed at length. In addition, problems with international law are reviewed, as Lane warns against the utopian hopes of global constitutionalism. Globalization also examines the potential consequences of failing to address the need for coordination in efforts to address shared global challenges.

posner center international development: The Implementation Game Carolyn Deere, 2011-06-16 With the launch of the World Trade Organization (WTO) in 1995, its Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS) emerged as a symbol of coercion in international economic relations. In the decade that followed, intellectual property became one of the most contentious topics of global policy debate. This book is the first full-length study of the politics surrounding what developing countries did to implement TRIPS and why. Based on a review of the evidence from 1995 to 2007, this book emphasises that developing countries exhibited considerable variation in their approach to TRIPS implementation. In particular, developing countries took varying degrees of advantage of the legal safeguards and options-commonly known as TRIPS 'flexibilities'-that the Agreement provides. To explain this variation, this book argues that TRIPS implementation must be understood as a complex political game played out among developing country governments and a range of stakeholders-developed countries, non-governmental organisations (NGOs), intergovernmental organisations (IGOs), and industry groups. The contested nature of the TRIPS bargain spurred competing efforts to revise the terms of TRIPS and to influence global IP regulation more broadly. The intensity of the implementation game was amplified by an awareness among the various stakeholders that the IP reforms developing countries pursued would influence these ongoing international negotiations. The book attributes the variation in TRIPS implementation to the interplay between these global IP debates, international power pressures, and political dynamics within developing countries. The book includes historical analysis, compilations of evidence, and analysis supported by examples from across the developing world. The Implementation Game will be of interest both to scholars of international relations, law, and international political economy as well as to policymakers, commentators, and activists engaged in debates on the global governance of intellectual property.

posner center international development: The Statute of the International Criminal Court: A Documentary History M. Cherif Bassiouni, 2025-02-03 The 1998 Statute of the International Criminal Court was the realization (albeit imperfect) of the oldest and longest-postponed item on the UN agenda, a judicial arm that could enforce the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Genocide Convention. For scholars studying this slow but crucial development in the international law of war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide, here is the essential documentary history: the draft statutes of 1951, 1953, 1981, and 1994, along with various related reports, the 1998 Statute, and commentary by Professor Bassiouni, who chaired the Drafting Committee of the 1998 Statute. Published under the Transnational Publishers imprint.

posner center international development: Hiding in Plain Sight Eric Stover, Victor Peskin, Alexa Koenig, 2016 Hiding in Plain Sight tells the story of the global effort to apprehend the world's most wanted fugitives. Beginning with the flight of tens of thousands of Nazi war criminals and their collaborators after World War II, then moving on to the question of justice following the recent Balkan wars and the Rwandan genocide, and ending with the establishment of the International Criminal Court and America's pursuit of suspected terrorists in the aftermath of 9/11, the book explores the range of diplomatic and military strategies--both successful and unsuccessful--that states and international courts have adopted to pursue and capture war crimes suspects. It is a story fraught with broken promises, backroom politics, ethical dilemmas, and daring escapades--all in the name of international justice and human rights. Hiding in Plain Sight is a companion book to the public television documentary Dead Reckoning: Postwar Justice from World War II to The War on Terror.
