

tdrl to pdrl mental health

tdrl to pdrl mental health represents a critical area of focus within the military community, addressing the transition from Temporary Disability Retirement List (TDRL) to Permanent Disability Retirement List (PDRL) and its profound impact on mental health. This topic is essential for service members navigating the complexities of disability status changes and the accompanying psychological challenges. Understanding the differences between TDRL and PDRL, the mental health implications during this transition, and available support resources can significantly improve outcomes for affected individuals. This article explores the process and mental health considerations of moving from TDRL to PDRL, offering valuable insights for veterans, military healthcare providers, and policymakers. Key points include the evaluation procedures, emotional and psychological effects, coping strategies, and the role of mental health services throughout the transition. The following sections will delve into these aspects in detail.

- Understanding TDRL and PDRL
- Mental Health Challenges During the Transition
- Support Systems and Resources
- Strategies for Managing Mental Health
- Policy and Future Considerations

Understanding TDRL and PDRL

The Temporary Disability Retirement List (TDRL) and Permanent Disability Retirement List (PDRL) are classifications used by the military to categorize service members based on the permanence and severity of their disabilities. TDRL is designed for individuals whose disabilities are not stable or permanent, allowing periodic re-evaluation. PDRL, conversely, applies to those with permanent disabilities that do not require further medical review. Understanding these classifications is crucial for grasping the context in which mental health concerns arise during the transition from TDRL to PDRL.

Definition and Purpose of TDRL

TDRL serves as a provisional status for service members with disabilities that may improve or worsen over time. During TDRL placement, individuals undergo medical evaluations every 18 months to assess changes in their condition. This system ensures that disability ratings and benefits correspond accurately to the service member's health status. The temporary nature of TDRL introduces uncertainty, which can affect mental health and emotional well-being.

Definition and Purpose of PDRL

PDRL is a status assigned when a service member's disability is stable and considered permanent. Once placed on PDRL, the individual no longer undergoes periodic evaluations, and disability benefits become fixed. This permanence provides financial and medical stability but can also signify a lifelong limitation, which may trigger psychological responses such as grief, adjustment difficulties, or depression.

Transition Process from TDRL to PDRL

The transition involves medical re-examinations and evaluations by military medical boards to determine if the disability has stabilized. This process is often complex and prolonged, contributing to stress and anxiety. The shift from a temporary to a permanent status can represent both relief and loss, impacting mental health in diverse ways depending on the individual's circumstances.

Mental Health Challenges During the Transition

The shift from TDRL to PDRL encompasses significant mental health challenges due to uncertainty, identity changes, and the emotional impact of permanent disability confirmation. Service members may experience a range of psychological effects that require attention and intervention.

Uncertainty and Anxiety

Being on TDRL entails ongoing evaluations and an unpredictable future, often leading to heightened anxiety. The uncertainty about whether disabilities will improve or worsen can cause chronic stress, impacting overall mental health. Anxiety may manifest as sleep disturbances, irritability, or difficulty concentrating.

Adjustment to Permanent Disability

The confirmation of a permanent disability through PDRL can trigger adjustment disorders. Service members may struggle with accepting new limitations, altered career trajectories, and changes in lifestyle. Feelings of loss, frustration, and helplessness are common during this phase, potentially leading to depression if unaddressed.

Identity and Self-Worth Issues

Military personnel often derive a strong sense of identity from their roles and capabilities. Transitioning to PDRL can challenge this identity, as disabilities may restrict duties or prevent continued service. This shift can affect self-esteem and self-worth, necessitating psychological support to foster positive self-perception.

Risk of Depression and PTSD

Service members moving from TDRL to PDRL may be at increased risk for depression and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), especially if disabilities result from combat or traumatic incidents. The compounded stress of disability and mental health conditions requires comprehensive care and monitoring.

Support Systems and Resources

Effective mental health support during the TDRL to PDRL transition is vital. Several military, veteran, and community resources are available to assist service members in managing psychological challenges associated with disability status changes.

Military Mental Health Services

The Department of Defense provides mental health services including counseling, psychiatric care, and resilience training tailored for active-duty service members. These services aim to address anxiety, depression, and adjustment issues linked to disability transitions.

Veterans Affairs (VA) Programs

The VA offers extensive mental health programs for veterans on disability retirement, including therapy, support groups, and rehabilitation services. These resources help veterans cope with permanent disability impacts and maintain psychological well-being.

Peer Support Networks

Peer support groups connect service members and veterans facing similar experiences with TDRL and PDRL transitions. Sharing challenges and coping strategies in a supportive environment can reduce isolation and promote mental health resilience.

Family and Community Support

Family members and community organizations play a crucial role in providing emotional support and practical assistance. Educating families about the mental health aspects of disability retirement enhances their ability to support affected individuals effectively.

Strategies for Managing Mental Health

Proactive management of mental health during the transition from TDRL to PDRL can improve outcomes. Several strategies and interventions are recommended to address the psychological impacts of disability status changes.

Early Psychological Intervention

Timely access to mental health professionals can mitigate anxiety and depressive symptoms. Early intervention includes counseling, cognitive-behavioral therapy, and stress management techniques aimed at fostering coping skills.

Developing a Supportive Environment

Encouraging open communication within families, peer groups, and healthcare teams creates a supportive atmosphere. This environment helps service members express concerns and receive validation and assistance.

Building Resilience and Coping Skills

Training programs focusing on resilience can equip individuals with tools to manage stress and adapt to permanent disability. Techniques such as mindfulness, relaxation exercises, and goal setting enhance psychological strength.

Utilizing Vocational and Rehabilitation Services

Engagement with vocational rehabilitation aids in career transition and skill development, helping to restore purpose and reduce feelings of loss related to disability. This practical support complements mental health care and promotes holistic well-being.

Regular Monitoring and Follow-Up

Continuous mental health evaluation during and after the transition ensures that emerging issues are addressed promptly. Follow-up care helps maintain stability and prevents deterioration of psychological health.

Policy and Future Considerations

Policies governing TDRL and PDRL transitions have significant implications for mental health outcomes. Ongoing efforts aim to improve these policies to better support service members and veterans.

Improving Evaluation Processes

Streamlining medical evaluations to reduce delays and uncertainty can alleviate related anxiety. Transparent communication about evaluation timelines and outcomes is essential for mental health stabilization.

Enhancing Mental Health Integration

Integrating mental health services into disability evaluation procedures ensures comprehensive care. This approach recognizes the interplay between physical and psychological health in disability retirement decisions.

Advocating for Increased Resources

Allocating additional funding for mental health programs and peer support initiatives enhances the availability and quality of care for transitioning service members. Policymakers are encouraged to prioritize these investments.

Research and Data Collection

Ongoing research into the mental health effects of TDRL to PDRL transitions informs evidence-based interventions. Collecting data on outcomes helps refine policies and support systems to meet evolving needs.

Promoting Awareness and Education

Raising awareness among service members, families, and healthcare providers about the mental health challenges associated with disability retirement fosters early identification and intervention. Educational campaigns support stigma reduction and encourage help-seeking behavior.

- Understanding TDRL and PDRL
- Mental Health Challenges During the Transition
- Support Systems and Resources
- Strategies for Managing Mental Health
- Policy and Future Considerations

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the difference between TDRL and PDRL in the context of mental health?

TDRL (Temporary Disability Retired List) is for service members with disabilities that may improve over time, allowing for periodic re-evaluation, while PDRL (Permanent Disability Retired List) is for those with disabilities deemed stable and unlikely to improve, leading to permanent retirement status.

How does mental health evaluation impact placement on TDRL or PDRL?

Mental health evaluations determine the severity and stability of a service member's condition; if improvement is possible, they may be placed on TDRL for periodic review, but if the condition is stable and unlikely to improve, placement on PDRL is more likely.

Can a service member with a mental health condition move from TDRL to PDRL?

Yes, if during periodic evaluations it is determined that the mental health condition has stabilized and is unlikely to improve, the service member can be transitioned from TDRL to PDRL for permanent retirement.

What are the typical mental health conditions considered for TDRL or PDRL?

Conditions such as PTSD, major depressive disorder, anxiety disorders, traumatic brain injury-related psychiatric symptoms, and other service-connected mental health disorders are commonly evaluated for TDRL or PDRL placement.

How often are mental health conditions reviewed for those on TDRL?

Mental health conditions for service members on TDRL are typically reviewed every 18 months to assess improvement or stability and determine if continued temporary status or transition to PDRL is appropriate.

What benefits do service members receive if placed on TDRL or PDRL due to mental health issues?

Service members on TDRL or PDRL receive retirement pay and medical benefits commensurate with their disability rating; TDRL members receive temporary benefits pending re-evaluation, while PDRL members receive permanent retirement benefits.

Additional Resources

1. From TDRL to PDRL: Understanding the Transition in Mental Health

This book explores the journey from Temporary Disability Retirement List (TDRL) to Permanent Disability Retirement List (PDRL), focusing on the psychological impact of this transition. It provides insights into coping mechanisms and the emotional challenges faced by veterans and service members. The author combines clinical research with personal stories to create an empathetic guide for mental health professionals and affected individuals.

2. Navigating Mental Health Challenges in Military Disability Retirement

A comprehensive resource that addresses the mental health issues commonly encountered during the transition from TDRL to PDRL. It outlines practical strategies for managing anxiety, depression, and PTSD symptoms. The book is aimed at both healthcare providers and veterans, emphasizing the importance of tailored mental health support.

3. Resilience and Recovery: Mental Health Strategies for TDRL and PDRL Veterans

This book highlights resilience-building techniques for veterans undergoing the shift from temporary to permanent disability retirement status. It discusses therapeutic approaches such as cognitive-behavioral therapy and mindfulness practices. Readers will find actionable advice to foster emotional well-being and long-term recovery.

4. The Psychological Impact of Disability Retirement on Service Members

Focusing on the mental health repercussions of transitioning from active duty to disability retirement, this book examines the identity and purpose challenges faced by veterans. It reviews clinical studies and offers recommendations for mental health interventions. The content is valuable for clinicians working with military populations.

5. Supporting Mental Health in Military Disability Transitions

An essential guide for caregivers, clinicians, and policymakers, this book discusses support systems that facilitate healthy mental health outcomes during TDRL to PDRL transitions. It covers family dynamics, peer support, and community resources. The book emphasizes collaborative care models to improve quality of life.

6. PTSD and Disability Retirement: Healing Beyond the Uniform

This title delves into the complex relationship between PTSD and military disability retirement processes. It provides an in-depth analysis of how PTSD symptoms evolve during TDRL and PDRL evaluations. The book also offers therapeutic approaches aimed at long-term healing and adjustment.

7. Emotional Well-being in the Face of Military Disability

A compassionate look at the emotional struggles experienced by service members facing permanent disability retirement. The author discusses grief, loss, and acceptance stages, providing psychological tools to manage these feelings. This book is a valuable companion for anyone affected by military disability transitions.

8. Military Mental Health: Transitioning from Temporary to Permanent Disability

This text provides a detailed overview of the mental health implications involved in the shift from TDRL to PDRL status. It includes case studies, diagnostic criteria, and treatment plans tailored to veterans. The book serves as a practical manual for mental health professionals specializing in military care.

9. Hope and Healing: Mental Health Journeys of Veterans on Disability Retirement

Through personal narratives and expert commentary, this book shares stories of veterans who have successfully navigated the mental health challenges of disability retirement. It emphasizes hope, resilience, and the importance of seeking help. The collection inspires both veterans and caregivers to embrace healing and growth.

Tdrl To Pdrl Mental Health

Find other PDF articles:

<https://test.murphyjewelers.com/archive-library-506/files?docid=Lpf53-1865&title=measurements-in-chemistry-laboratory.pdf>

tdrl to pdrl mental health: Military Mental Health Care Cheryl Lawhorne-Scott, Don Philpott, 2012-12-07 Too often American veterans return from combat and spiral into depression, anger and loneliness they can neither share nor tackle on their own. Military Mental Health Care: A Guide for Service Members, Veterans, Families, and Community seeks to aid our troubled, returning forces by dissecting the numerous mental health problems they face upon arriving stateside. Don Philpott and Cheryl Lawhorne-Scott, co-authors with Janelle Hill of the highly successful Wounded Warrior Handbook, detail not only each issue's symptoms, but also discuss what treatments are available, and the best ways for veterans to access those treatments while readjusting to civilian life. In addition, they connect and explain many alarming trends, such as joblessness, poverty and addiction, appearing in our nation's veteran population on a broader scale. PTSD and struggles with anxiety affect far more than veterans themselves, as sobering phenomena like homelessness, suicide, domestic violence and divorce too often become realities for those returning from war. Military Mental Health Care is both a resource for struggling veterans and a useful tool for their loved ones, or anyone looking for ways to support the veterans in their lives.

tdrl to pdrl mental health: Personality Disorder Discharges United States. Congress. House. Committee on Veterans' Affairs, 2011 tdrl to pdrl mental health: The War Within Lisa H Jaycox, Christopher G Pernin, Rachel M Burns, Rajeev Ramchand, Joie Acosta, 2011-02-17 The increase in suicides among military personnel has raised concern. This book reviews suicide epidemiology in the military, catalogs military suicide-prevention activities, and recommends relevant best practices.

tdrl to pdrl mental health: Federal Claims Reporter , 2005

Related to tdrl to pdrl mental health

How To Get DD214 Changed to PDRL from TDRL Not the answer you want, but you don't. When you were placed on the TDRL you were discharged from active duty. Later your status changed from TDRL to PDRL and you

TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL statute Title 10 US Code, Sec. 1202. "Regulars and members on active duty for more than 30 days: temporary disability retired list Upon a determination by the Secretary

On TDRL-if removed, and not added to PDRL will I lose evrything Hypothetical: AF places me in TDRL for MDD. Re-eval says I'm fit for duty, Removal from TDRL list vs Added to PDRL list Will I lose all moneys or can I still collect VA

TDRL to PDRL; Question about pay changes - Physical Evaluation I received my findings today stating that I will be going from TDRL to PDRL. I am reading the information sheet and there was a section that I had some confusion about. Do not

TDRL - Re-evaluation (1) | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello folks As of 29 April 2017 - I've been place on TDRL and last month, I've received a letter advising to contact Naval medical center in Pensacola for a re-evaluation. I've

TDRL for PTSD/Depression - Physical Evaluation Board Forum Welcome to the PEB Forum! From an U.S. Army perspective while being placed onto the DoD military TDRL for 3.5+ years now for PTSD+MDD with severe psychosis, your

Getting a job while on TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum This makes it very hard for the TDRL exam provider to assess you as being less impaired than your own provider's well-documented records. In addition, some services will

tdrl - Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL status and VA reeval increase Mods Im not sure where to ask TDRL questions - please advise if wrong forum. Gist of it is I have recently got VA MH increase while

TDRL Re-Evaluation | Physical Evaluation Board Forum I was placed on TDRL in June 2020, so this is my first and only reevaluation. I was informed that the PEB will review my VA records and make a determination from them instead

TDRL --> Return To Duty | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello, So I've been on TDRL for a bit and have been thinking about the possibility of returning to duty. If I am found fit at my exam will I really be able to return to duty because it

How To Get DD214 Changed to PDRL from TDRL Not the answer you want, but you don't. When you were placed on the TDRL you were discharged from active duty. Later your status changed from TDRL to PDRL and you

TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL statute Title 10 US Code, Sec. 1202. "Regulars and members on active duty for more than 30 days: temporary disability retired list Upon a determination by the Secretary

On TDRL-if removed, and not added to PDRL will I lose everything Hypothetical: AF places me in TDRL for MDD. Re-eval says I'm fit for duty, Removal from TDRL list vs Added to PDRL list Will I lose all moneys or can I still collect VA

TDRL to PDRL; Question about pay changes - Physical Evaluation I received my findings today stating that I will be going from TDRL to PDRL. I am reading the information sheet and there was a section that I had some confusion about. Do not

TDRL - Re-evaluation (1) | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello folks As of 29 April 2017 - I've been place on TDRL and last month, I've received a letter advising to contact Naval medical center in Pensacola for a re-evaluation. I've

TDRL for PTSD/Depression - Physical Evaluation Board Forum Welcome to the PEB Forum! From an U.S. Army perspective while being placed onto the DoD military TDRL for 3.5+ years now for PTSD+MDD with severe psychosis, your

Getting a job while on TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum This makes it very hard for the TDRL exam provider to assess you as being less impaired than your own provider's well-documented records. In addition, some services will

tdrl - Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL status and VA reeval increase Mods Im not sure where to ask TDRL questions - please advise if wrong forum. Gist of it is I have recently got VA MH increase while

TDRL Re-Evaluation | Physical Evaluation Board Forum I was placed on TDRL in June 2020, so this is my first and only reevaluation. I was informed that the PEB will review my VA records and make a determination from them instead

TDRL --> Return To Duty | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello, So I've been on TDRL for a bit and have been thinking about the possibility of returning to duty. If I am found fit at my exam will I really be able to return to duty because it

How To Get DD214 Changed to PDRL from TDRL Not the answer you want, but you don't. When you were placed on the TDRL you were discharged from active duty. Later your status changed from TDRL to PDRL and you

TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL statute Title 10 US Code, Sec. 1202. "Regulars and members on active duty for more than 30 days: temporary disability retired list Upon a determination by the Secretary

On TDRL-if removed, and not added to PDRL will I lose everything Hypothetical: AF places me in TDRL for MDD. Re-eval says I'm fit for duty, Removal from TDRL list vs Added to PDRL list Will I lose all moneys or can I still collect VA

TDRL to PDRL; Question about pay changes - Physical Evaluation I received my findings today stating that I will be going from TDRL to PDRL. I am reading the information sheet and there was a section that I had some confusion about. Do not

TDRL - Re-evaluation (1) | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello folks As of 29 April 2017 - I've been place on TDRL and last month, I've received a letter advising to contact Naval medical center in Pensacola for a re-evaluation. I've

TDRL for PTSD/Depression - Physical Evaluation Board Forum Welcome to the PEB Forum! From an U.S. Army perspective while being placed onto the DoD military TDRL for 3.5+ years now for PTSD+MDD with severe psychosis, your

Getting a job while on TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum This makes it very hard for the TDRL exam provider to assess you as being less impaired than your own provider's well-documented records. In addition, some services will

tdrl - Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL status and VA reeval increase Mods Im not sure where to ask TDRL questions - please advise if wrong forum. Gist of it is I have recently got VA MH increase while

TDRL Re-Evaluation | Physical Evaluation Board Forum I was placed on TDRL in June 2020, so this is my first and only reevaluation. I was informed that the PEB will review my VA records and make a determination from them instead

TDRL --> Return To Duty | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello, So I've been on TDRL for a bit and have been thinking about the possibility of returning to duty. If I am found fit at my exam will I really be able to return to duty because it

How To Get DD214 Changed to PDRL from TDRL Not the answer you want, but you don't. When you were placed on the TDRL you were discharged from active duty. Later your status changed from TDRL to PDRL and you

TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL statute Title 10 US Code, Sec. 1202. "Regulars and members on active duty for more than 30 days: temporary disability retired list Upon a determination by the Secretary

On TDRL-if removed, and not added to PDRL will I lose evrything Hypothetical: AF places me in TDRL for MDD. Re-eval says I'm fit for duty, Removal from TDRL list vs Added to PDRL list Will I lose all moneys or can I still collect VA

TDRL to PDRL; Question about pay changes - Physical Evaluation I received my findings today stating that I will be going from TDRL to PDRL. I am reading the information sheet and there was a section that I had some confusion about. Do not

TDRL - Re-evaluation (1) | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello folks As of 29 April 2017 - I've been place on TDRL and last month, I've received a letter advising to contact Naval medical center in Pensacola for a re-evaluation. I've

TDRL for PTSD/Depression - Physical Evaluation Board Forum Welcome to the PEB Forum! From an U.S. Army perspective while being placed onto the DoD military TDRL for 3.5+ years now for PTSD+MDD with severe psychosis, your

Getting a job while on TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum This makes it very hard for the TDRL exam provider to assess you as being less impaired than your own provider's well-documented records. In addition, some services will

tdrl - Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL status and VA reeval increase Mods Im not sure where to ask TDRL questions - please advise if wrong forum. Gist of it is I have recently got VA MH increase while

TDRL Re-Evaluation | Physical Evaluation Board Forum I was placed on TDRL in June 2020, so this is my first and only reevaluation. I was informed that the PEB will review my VA records and make a determination from them instead

TDRL --> Return To Duty | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello, So I've been on TDRL for a bit and have been thinking about the possibility of returning to duty. If I am found fit at my exam will I really be able to return to duty because it

How To Get DD214 Changed to PDRL from TDRL Not the answer you want, but you don't. When you were placed on the TDRL you were discharged from active duty. Later your status changed from TDRL to PDRL and you

TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL statute Title 10 US Code, Sec. 1202. "Regulars and members on active duty for more than 30 days: temporary disability retired list Upon a determination by the Secretary

On TDRL-if removed, and not added to PDRL will I lose everything Hypothetical: AF places me in TDRL for MDD. Re-eval says I'm fit for duty, Removal from TDRL list vs Added to PDRL list Will I lose all moneys or can I still collect VA

TDRL to PDRL; Question about pay changes - Physical Evaluation I received my findings today stating that I will be going from TDRL to PDRL. I am reading the information sheet and there was a section that I had some confusion about. Do not

TDRL - Re-evaluation (1) | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello folks As of 29 April 2017 - I've been place on TDRL and last month, I've received a letter advising to contact Naval medical center in Pensacola for a re-evaluation. I've

TDRL for PTSD/Depression - Physical Evaluation Board Forum Welcome to the PEB Forum! From an U.S. Army perspective while being placed onto the DoD military TDRL for 3.5+ years now for PTSD+MDD with severe psychosis, your

Getting a job while on TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum This makes it very hard for the TDRL exam provider to assess you as being less impaired than your own provider's well-documented records. In addition, some services will

tdrl - Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL status and VA reeval increase Mods Im not sure where to ask TDRL questions - please advise if wrong forum. Gist of it is I have recently got VA MH increase while

TDRL Re-Evaluation | Physical Evaluation Board Forum I was placed on TDRL in June 2020, so this is my first and only reevaluation. I was informed that the PEB will review my VA records and make a determination from them instead

TDRL --> Return To Duty | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello, So I've been on TDRL for a bit and have been thinking about the possibility of returning to duty. If I am found fit at my exam will I really be able to return to duty because it

How To Get DD214 Changed to PDRL from TDRL Not the answer you want, but you don't. When you were placed on the TDRL you were discharged from active duty. Later your status changed from TDRL to PDRL and you

TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL statute Title 10 US Code, Sec. 1202. "Regulars and members on active duty for more than 30 days: temporary disability retired list Upon a determination by the Secretary

On TDRL-if removed, and not added to PDRL will I lose everything Hypothetical: AF places me in TDRL for MDD. Re-eval says I'm fit for duty, Removal from TDRL list vs Added to PDRL list Will I lose all moneys or can I still collect VA

TDRL to PDRL; Question about pay changes - Physical Evaluation I received my findings today stating that I will be going from TDRL to PDRL. I am reading the information sheet and there was a section that I had some confusion about. Do not

TDRL - Re-evaluation (1) | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello folks As of 29 April 2017 - I've been place on TDRL and last month, I've received a letter advising to contact Naval medical center in Pensacola for a re-evaluation. I've

TDRL for PTSD/Depression - Physical Evaluation Board Forum Welcome to the PEB Forum! From an U.S. Army perspective while being placed onto the DoD military TDRL for 3.5+ years now for PTSD+MDD with severe psychosis, your

Getting a job while on TDRL | Physical Evaluation Board Forum This makes it very hard for the TDRL exam provider to assess you as being less impaired than your own provider's well-documented records. In addition, some services will

tdrl - Physical Evaluation Board Forum TDRL status and VA reeval increase Mods Im not sure where to ask TDRL questions - please advise if wrong forum. Gist of it is I have recently got VA MH increase while

TDRL Re-Evaluation | Physical Evaluation Board Forum I was placed on TDRL in June 2020, so this is my first and only reevaluation. I was informed that the PEB will review my VA records and make a determination from them instead

TDRL --> Return To Duty | Physical Evaluation Board Forum Hello, So I've been on TDRL for a bit and have been thinking about the possibility of returning to duty. If I am found fit at my exam will I really be able to return to duty because it

Back to Home: <https://test.murphyjewelers.com>