COWVR and TEMPEST V10 Datasets Available in First Public From their perch on the ISS, COWVR and TEMPEST will provide crucial data that scientists use to forecast weather and climate. COWVR is responsible for measuring the

Monsoons - NASA Earthdata Monsoons data from NASA provides global insight into the formation and behavior of these seasonal wind and rain phenomena

Reckoning with Winds - NASA Earthdata Winds over the oceans are retrieved because the water's surface roughens rapidly with increasing wind speed, which increases the backscatter detected by this specialized radar

Physical Oceanography DAAC | NASA Earthdata Measurements include gravity, ocean winds, sea surface temperature, ocean surface topography, sea surface salinity, surface water, and circulation. The data support a wide range of Lake Effect Snow - NASA Earthdata Lake effect snow data collected by NASA are integral for efforts to understand patterns of snowfall accumulation, among other investigations

Atmospheric Winds - NASA Earthdata NASA's atmospheric wind data provide measurements to profile the force of air moving over land, water, and high into the sky

Surface Winds - NASA Earthdata Surface winds refer to the wind speed and direction measured from the surface of Earth's land or ocean. By studying these winds, scientists can learn more about ocean

Wind Speed | NASA Earthdata NASA data shows wind speed at the ocean and land surface as well as in vertical profiles through the atmosphere

The Power of a Brazilian Wind | NASA Earthdata People often picture wind turbines rooted in waving fields of golden grass, but wind turbines can also stand among the waves of coastal waters. Offshore wind offers more
